Alexandria Gazette

TUESDAY EVENING, APRIL 24.

ALMOST BURIED ALIVE .- From Cambridge an extraordinay story is sent. It is stated that a railway porter, about thirty years of age, was recently seized with acute bronchitis, and was supposed to have expired in the threes of that dreadful ailment, which slays every year its thousands of little children and of aged people, simply because extreme youth is equally with extreme age too feeble to clear the bronchial tubs by a vigorous and sustained effort of coughing. The railway porter, supposed to have departed this life, was duly laid out and placed in a coffin. As his assumed dissolution had been sudden the coroner was consulted on the propriety of holding an inquest. Some uncertainty in this regard appears to have reigned in the mind of the medical man who had been called in but at any rate, the railway porter lay in his coffin two days, at the expiration of which he quietly got out of it, and to the inexpressible amezement and alarm of those present in the chamber of death sat himself down in a chair. chamber of death sat himself down in a chair.

It is stated that in order to alleviate the severity of the spasms of bronchitis, the patient's mother had administered to him a sleeping draught which had produced a deep and lengthy stupor, but the effects of which had stopped short just on this side of the graye. We sincerely hope that the joor fellow has by this time recovered, and that he will not easily hope of and that he will not again harrow the feelings of his relatives and friends by getting worse and dying in earnest From this curious case may perall some advantages connected with our system of keeping a corpse above ground for four or ave days, or even for a whole week, after death. Among the fatin taces interment within tour and twenty hours is the invariable and rigoroasly enforced rule of police, and had this poor railway porter been a Frenchman, an Italian or a Spaniard, he would have been duly scrowed down and carried away, insensible, but still alive, to the countery.
